

Dear Belmont Charter Network Families,

We hope that you all enjoyed the long holiday weekend. We remain thankful and very grateful to be working alongside you through this time.

This is your weekly school reopening update. Based on the continued level of transmission in our community, Pennsylvania Department of Education and the Department of Health recommendations remain the same as last week, which is for full remote learning.

We are cautiously optimistic that we will be able to begin a staggered reopening for live instruction in January. Our continued planning will prioritize our elementary school students beginning with kindergarten. Although we do not yet have any dates set, we can confirm that it will be no sooner than January 11th, and we should be able to confirm dates before winter break.

Until then, we will continue to review the data and communicate weekly.

Stay Safe,
